STONE COOL
 'Greenery' is Pantone's 2017 colour of the year, so the smart money is on malachite and these iridescent hero pieces.

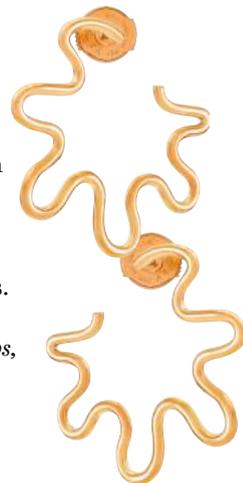

GEM LATTICE

Having grown up in her family's antique business, Hancocks London, jewellery has always been central to Amy Burton's life. Now she has launched her own architecturally derived line that is as bold in design as it is fine in execution. Watch this space. Amy Burton Fine Jewellery ring, £8,500, at Hancocks London (020 7493 8904)

CHILD'S PLAY

Christened Baby Memphis, Sabine Getty's new diffusion collection draws upon the dynamic shapes and vibrant palette of her signature line but at more accessible prices. What's not to love? Baby Memphis Wave rose gold hoops, £1,200 (sabinegetty.com)

BLING IT ON

The coolest ice, the hottest rocks, and wrist candy galore. Katrina Israel selects the very best of this season's watches and jewellery...

A BUG'S LIFE

Delfina Delettrez has always had a penchant for insects and her latest collection of jewelled critters surfaces just in time for Dover Street Market's Open House on 18 May. The line includes six limited-edition Insectmania brooches, a pearl necklace and chandelier earrings inspired by severed insect parts. Delfina Delettrez beetle brooches, from £5,050, at Dover Street Market (020 7518 0680)

PARIS MATCH

The geometry of Place Vendôme in the French capital inspired Chanel's handsome Boy.Friend watch, which has been updated in the maison's signature tweed. From £3,700 (chanel.com)

FACE VALUE

Featuring semi-precious stones such as lapis lazuli and turquoise, this season's cocktail timepieces are just asking to be noticed.

CHARLOTTE CHESNAIS ring, £2,210; earring (right), £2,720, both at Dover Street Market (020 7518 0680)

OVER THE RAINBOW

Parisian Charlotte Chesnais is renowned for sculptural, contemporary designs that engage with the body, encircling the ear or appearing to hover atop the fingers. Now the designer, who spent 10 years with Nicolas Ghesquière at Balenciaga, has turned her hand to fine jewellery with her first collection showcasing a kaleidoscopic colour wheel of glittering stones ranging from peridot to sapphire.

Bulgari Serpenti watch, £5,400 (020 7872 9969)

YOU TIME

Fashion's personalisation craze knows no bounds. Tiffany & Co's Old Bond Street store is inviting clients to customise its East West Mini watch, while Bulgari's Serpenti 'Twist your time' initiative allows for more than 300 variations of its snaking timepiece. Then, come September, Fendi will debut its Policromia watch made-to-order programme, offering up a near-infinite number of colourful combinations.

IN THE LOOP

Delicately encrusted hoops have swooped in on the everyday earring territory, replacing the diamond stud as our go-to adornment. Here's our Monday to Sunday picks...

MAPPIN & WEBB, £2,000 (mappinandwebb.com)

KATE MOSS X ARA VARTANIAN yellow gold single earring, £4,800 (020 7493 4751)

KATE MOSS X ARA VARTANIAN yellow gold and black diamond necklace, £1,900 (020 7493 4751)

MOSS BUY

Brazilian jeweller Ara Vartanian has enlisted good friend Kate Moss to collaborate on a capsule collection that unites traditional pagan and medieval symbols, such as the sword, sickle and shield, with spiritually charged stones like amethyst, citrine and garnet. The campaign was shot by David Bailey's son, Fenton, at Moss's Cotswolds home. The result? A collab with serious star power.

BOXED CLEVER

For the woman who has it all, Jessica McCormack has created a gift box of precious earrings, inspired by her personal preference for mismatched baubles to adorn multiple piercings. Jessica McCormack Taster Menu, from £9,000 (020 7491 9999)
